Form 990 - Organization's Mission

Our Mission: "Beyond Boobs! is dedicated to saving and healing lives by supporting young women diagnosed with breast cancer while providing breast health education for all."

Beyond Boobs! (BB!) was founded in 2007 by two young breast cancer survivors to fill the lack of support services in their community for the unique needs of young women with this disease. This gap in support and educational services for young survivors is now recognized as a public health issue nationwide by the Center for Disease Control (CDC).

BB! has changed the paradigm for support groups and altered the dialogue around breast cancer. Recognizing that laughter is the best medicine, we use an encouraging, light approach to help our young women heal and to enhance our ability to educate the community at large about breast health action by making it less frightening to talk about and do.

Form 990, Part I, Line 6

Beyond Boobs! is blessed to have a wealth of volunteers who assist in all aspects of our services.

WAYS VOLUNTEERS HELP: Volunteer, peer facilitators (all young survivors themselves) lead our "Not Your Typical" (NYT) Support Systems for young breast cancer survivors in their local communities (in 2014 we ran twelve support systems: nine in Virginia, one in North Carolina, and one in Florida). These dedicated, trained volunteers are the backbone of our grassroots support function that effectively brings young survivors together and addresses their unique needs that are so different from older survivors. These Support System Facilitators host monthly "not your typical" support group gatherings; connect with these young women by phone, email, personal visits, and private Facebook groups in between; plan fun activities for the women to enjoy each other's company and support; and coordinate the provision of meals, transportation, and other services as needed, such as accompaniment to doctor appointments and treatments. With their passion to make a difference, these volunteers are helping Beyond Boobs! provide our transformational NYT Support Systems that help our young survivors through their diagnoses, treatment and beyond and return them to their families and communities stronger than before.

Volunteers also assist in program presentations (such as speaking engagements, health fairs, and exhibit booths), fund raising, administrative tasks, bookkeeping, distribution of educational materials, coordinating our retail inventory, gathering content for our Hope Totes, organizing retreats, staffing events such as our annual gala and run, serving on our speaker's bureau, and representing Beyond Boobs! at community events to help spread our educational messages of early detection and taking charge of your breast health.

VOLUNTEER HOURS CONTRIBUTED: In 2014, volunteers contributed a total of 13,914 hours to the work of Beyond Boobs! The staff contributed 2,087 volunteer hours over and above their paid time, and one of the co-founders contributed 1,113 volunteer hours. Our "Full Support" Volunteers (committed to working in the office at least one day per week) contributed a total of 3,200 hours, and event related volunteers added another 3,896 hours.

SKILLED VOLUNTEER SERVICES: A number of volunteers provide specialized skills so critical to the organization's operations that were they not donated, we would have to pay a salaried person or professional consultant for these services. To recognize and quantify these contributions, we measured and valued the donated time of these "skilled volunteers" based on skill level. The value of the services of these volunteers (3,618 hours worth) was $293,058 in 2014. This total, if allowed to be included in the tax return as income, would be apportioned $228,585 to Program Services, $26,375 to Fund Raising Activities, and $38,097 to Administrative Activities. If allowed to include the value of these specialized volunteer services our percentage allocation of cash expenditures would be more heavily weighted toward the Program Services category and much reduced in the Administrative category.

duration because of their young age. They rarely know anyone else their age going through it, are having to face mortality when they should be focusing on building their futures, may have young children and careers to manage while in treatment, and are left with life altering psychosocial and health related issues, if they survive. Their breast cancers tend to be more advanced at diagnosis, they often have a more aggressive form of the disease, and their death rate is higher than for older survivors. All these factors add to the compelling need for support services designed specifically for these young women, commonly referred to as Young Breast Cancer Survivors (YBCS).

THE ACCOMPLISHMENT: Beyond Boobs! (BB!) is meeting this need through reproducible, community-based "Not Your Typical" Support Systems (NYT Support Systems) offered in multiple locations in three states and spreading. Our brand of support appeals to young women because we have rejected the sterile, traditional medical-based support group experience for an upbeat, positive, environment with more laughter than tears, and more empowerment than victimization. Nothing like the Beyond Boobs! concept of support has been offered before.

The NYT Support Systems model connects YBCS in their own localities to share information, resources, in-person support, friendship, and hope. As co-founder Mary Beth said, "I had great family support, but there was nothing like women who understood exactly what I was going through because they'd been there."

With the help of trained, peer Facilitators, BB! creates an environment where young survivors can get vital health and coping information wrapped up in a positive outlook in the midst of this unexpected trauma. For example, our YBCS share how to tell your children, suggest questions to ask your doctor, explain treatment options and what the surgeries involve, and even do "show and tell" (of mastectomy scars or reconstruction results) to reduce fear of what lies ahead - vital information for the newly diagnosed. For those in treatment, they provide emotional as well as physical (going to doctor appointments, treatments, babysitting, meals, etc.) support. For those past treatment, they talk about sex after cancer, finding your "new fabulous" and how to deal with fear of the "The Stalker" (recurrence). We model and talk about healthy living and exercise to reduce risk of recurrence and increase wellbeing and we focus on having fun.

The transformational impact of this innovative support model has been described this way:

"I am still in awe of the quality of life changes I witnessed in Kristi's [a Support System Facilitator] living room. A newly diagnosed young woman would arrive for her first support meeting with eyes filled with tears and her face fraught with fear. Two hours later, she was leaving with a smile on her face a swagger that says, 'I can do this!' Her quality of life has seen an uptick. And I'm saying to myself, 'what just happened?!' Sharing with other young women with similar diagnoses who have months and even years out from treatment gave her hope that she, too, could live through this disease. She was inspired when she saw others whose hair really had grown back after chemo and when her peers shared simple tricks that had been helpful during treatment. She was relieved to see how really pretty a fellow member actually looked without hair, and yes, it would be just fine to leave that wig or scarf on the shelf during those hot summer months. She shared a few tears and lots of hugs and laughter and left knowing she was not alone in this battle and that she had the power to deal with having been knocked on her butt by breast cancer." "Almost exactly a year ago, I was diagnosed with breast cancer. I had no idea what to do and/or what to expect; neither did my friends nor family. I was a 29-year-old single mother in the military, surrounded by people who've never experienced breast cancer. I had doctors throwing information at me from every angle and was given days to make critical decisions about my life and my body. An overwhelming amount of ladies that I could relate to came to me with open arms and told me everything I needed to hear at that time. Almost immediately, I knew what to ask my doctors and I had an idea of what to expect from chemotherapy, surgery, radiation, etc. The fear of the unknown can be one of the scariest things ever! Becoming a Boober![a member of a Beyond Boobs! NYT Support System] has made me feel normal again. This is definitely "Not Your Typical" Support System . . . thank God!" Rashida S., diagnosed at 29

Surveys show that being part of a BB! NYT Support System positively affects quality of life, as well as treatment and recovery, by contributing substantially to social, emotional, and physical wellbeing. The "I can do this" support we provide is empowering these women to turn their diagnoses into a catalyst for positive change and return to their families and communities stronger than before, thus benefiting their families and communities as well:

"I have personally witnessed the exceptional benefits of this program in the young women in my practice. In the past, the young breast cancer patient often felt isolated as many women are diagnosed with the disease in their later years. The young woman faces a host of challenges that are very different from those of the older breast cancer patient. How does one care for young children and receive intensive chemotherapy? What about the possibility of having children after treatment of breast cancer? How will this diagnosis change the way I am viewed in the workplace? What will happen in my relationship with my spouse? Through the efforts of Beyond Boobs!, an incredible network has been created for patients, their families, and the general community." Christy Prillaman, M.D., Virginia Oncology Associates

Our "Not Your Typical" Support System is a proven, scalable model poised to be broadly disseminated to YBCS across the country as is already being done regionally. As we secure additional funding for this purpose, the net result of this expansion will be that more young women can benefit from our unique brand of encouragement during treatment and beyond, when it is often needed even more.

As an organization started by two survivors as a result of their own experiences with breast cancer at a young age and lack of support services designed for their specific challenges, our goal is to make sure that any young woman diagnosed with breast cancer has access to all the love, support, and friendship she needs from her peers who have traveled the same scary, life-altering journey before her.

To spread BB!'s breast health message, BB! has a robust and diverse communication plan leveraging print, multimedia, our education-enriched website (www.beyondboobs.org), social media, and speakers bureau, all of which we use to stay connected with and deliver health messaging to our key stakeholders. Following is more detail about specific ways we share our health message:

"A Calendar to LIVE By" -- This award-winning, inspiring wall calendar of young survivors contains a "health guide"(in removable form) and is filled with information to help all women make their health a top priority. Our main educational tool, it includes what every woman needs to know to take charge of her breast and overall health, what to do if you've been diagnosed, and how to help someone going through it. Of the 10,000 printed for 2014, we donated or distributed 87% to health departments, hospitals, schools, free clinics, and newly diagnosed women in the communities we serve. The Calendar Marketing Association awarded A Calendar to LIVE By 2014 two Gold Awards for Most Informative and Most Original, and a Silver Award for Best Non-Profit. The calendar also reached the Top 5 in the National Overall category for 2014.

Educational Speakers Bureau/Health Events Outreach -- We offer lively, entertaining presentations on topics such as "How to be a Chick in Charge (of Your Breast Health)" and "Living Life with an Exclamation Point! Instead of a Period." Designed to encourage healthy living and share the things we learned from having breast cancer, our presentations dispel fear and leave listeners (even men) smiling and inspired. Through an active Speakers Bureau, Beyond Boobs! did 23 speaking engagements in 2014 reaching approximately 2,388 attendees.

Lights, Camera, (Breast Health) Action! -- Beyond Boobs! offers fun, feisty public service announcement videos (on YouTube) promoting early detection and living life with an exclamation point (!) instead of a period. The pink ribbon has made us all aware, but that's not enough. We take it to the next level by calling all women to ACTION and using our videos to show them how to begin.

Social Media Outreach - Beyond Boobs! effectively uses social media (Facebook and Twitter) to reach many more people than we could otherwise with our educational messages, reminders to do the actions required for early detection, and inspiration to live life to the fullest. We consistently posted (generally on a daily basis) to our BB! Facebook Fans throughout the year (11,000+ Fans at year end); and used email newsletters to reach the women we serve, supporters, and volunteers with our healthy living messages. By year-end we increased our Twitter Followers from 139 to 340 and visitors to our website by 56%.

Community Outreach -- Through a number of Beyond Boobs! Signature Events (see below) and other events hosted by various community organizations and businesses to benefit Beyond Boobs! (63 in 2014), we spread our educational messages throughout the areas we serve, to motivate more women to take the steps to ensure early detection.

Statement 1 - Late Filing Explanation

Description

The accountant preparing the tax return (an unpaid volunteer) attempted to file the extension electronically. For reasons he has yet to determine the electronic extension filing process failed and he was forced to mail an extension to the IRS.

The hand prepared extension was not postmarked in time to be considered timely by the Internal Revenue Service.

Since we can not figure out why the extension was not processed electronically we have no error messages that we might share with the IRS regarding the original attempt and the e-file rejection of the extension.

The organization has never been late for any filing in the past.
